

Proudly Featured On

Recent Tips & Trends

Hair Style Forecast for Spring '10

"Make-Over Guru" Michael Angelo Rizzi of Michael Angelo Hair Studio shares his thoughts on what is inspiring the trends in hair styles this spring.

As a Redken Certified Haircolorist, he discusses the principles of design and hair color for the warmer weather.

What are the most popular haircolor shades we'll be seeing this spring?

Cool blondes with warmer, darker shades will make a huge comeback, as well as softer reds.

How about hairstyles and haircuts?

Extreme lengths will be very popular this spring and summer. Long layered locks will continue to be the trend for those not ready to cut their hair and super short haircuts for those who are daring enough as the warmer weather arrives.

Surprisingly, older women will start to break the barrier for the 'no below-the-shoulder hairstyles for a woman over 50' rule.

How do the hair trends coordinate with fashion and makeup trends?

Fashion colors for this coming spring will be softer and more muted with turquoise eye shadows topping the chart with exciting new splashes of bright makeup colors like yellow.

Hair will reflect the same tone of softness and muted haircolor shades with just hints of brightness peeking through.

What products will be necessary to achieve these looks?

With humidity rising in spring, a good smoothing lotion will be essential to calm frizz. We use and recommend our own signature new Volume Gelee by Michael Angelo Masterpiece Haircare. While maintaining the fullness and body of your hair, it smoothes and conditions any frizz.

How about hair pieces and extensions?

Clip-in hair extension pieces will still be fun this coming spring and summer, especially if you weren't able to grow your hair fast enough last season.

The clip-in ponytail is one of the most affordable and fun looks.

What's the must-have hair care item for spring?

A Shades EQ Haircolor Glaze by Redken will be a necessity for spring! Every woman wants their hair to have that incredible shine. Spring is a time for renewing spirits, haircuts, haircolor and image.

There is no better professional haircare service and product to deliver the most shine and conditioning in one step. The Shades EQ Glaze can be done clear for just shine only. It can also be colored to refresh your existing haircolor.

It adds life to the haircolor. As the hair grows and the ends oxidize from the sun, Shades EQ acts as a filler and refreshes with a hint of color while adding shine.

Photo Credit: Michael Angelo Haircolor Studio, Tampa, FL
Hairstylist: Michael Angelo | Photographer: Larry Oskin |
Model: Morgan

Michael Angelo Rizzi of Michael Angelo Hair Studio is respected as a nationally celebrated hair designer, and he is a Redken Certified Haircolorist. Michael has regularly appeared on stage with David Stanko across the United States as a top Redken educator and platform artist. Michael Angelo has been published in the Tampa Tribune, Tampa Bay Illustrated, Elle Décor Magazine and many other publications. By exclusive invitation, he recently spent two days in Washington D.C. working on creative haircuts, haircolor and hair designs for a new Passion International Stylebook that will be released and distributed worldwide in 2010. While there, he styled hair for a number of the NBA's Washington Wizard's Cheerleaders.